

FREAK STORM BREAKS SUNDAY OVER CITY FOLLOWING EXTREME HEAT WAVE LIGHTNING CAUSES MINOR DAMAGE

Sunday afternoon's freak electrical storm brought several bolts of lightning to the city and in the mountains nearby, most destructive of which struck a telephone pole adjoining the Pacific Electric station at Baldwin and Sierra Madre Blvd. and burned out most of the station's electrical fixtures.

The P. E. station was probably saved from a serious fire by the foresight of George Dunigan, station clerk, who saw that the power switch at the base of the pole was on and turned it off a few minutes before the bolt struck.

Even so, the lightning jumped the switch burning out all light fixtures inside the station, requiring complete re-wiring of the building. Fire Chief James C. Hensley made an immediate inspection of the damage making sure that no further fire would result.

Other occurrences possibly incidental to the storm or to the slight earth tremors felt in Sierra Madre late Friday and early Saturday, were a power cut-off on Churchill Road Sunday afternoon and a bad leak in the city water main at Alta Vista and Woodland. Water was cut off in parts of Sierra Madre Canyon for more than an hour while a crew from the City Water Department worked feverishly to repair the main. A telephone line was also reported down on North Baldwin Ave. during the storm.

Lookouts in the Angeles National Forest were on the lookout following the storm for lightning fires, but none developed. A total rainfall of 1.12 ins. was recorded at the Sierra Madre Pumping Station gauge in Sunday's and Monday night's storms until 12 a. m. Tuesday. This was somewhat less than the precipitation recorded on the U. S. Government rain gauge at Paul N. Carter house on North Mt. Trail Ave. of 1.31 inches for the two days. As much as three inches of rain was recorded in the upper part of San Antonio Canyon, according to the U. S. Forest Service Dispatcher's office.

More Births In City Than Deaths

There were fewer cases of preventable disease in the Los Angeles county health department jurisdiction, which includes Sierra Madre, in 1945 than in any year since 1940. This is the highlight of the annual report of the Los Angeles county health department filed Tuesday by county health officer.

In a breakdown of figures from which the annual report was compiled, Sierra Madre comes under the same healthy condition. Dr. Furstman, district health officer, said, Diseases reported in this community in 1945 totaled 151 as against 252 in 1944.

In the top group were chicken pox, 47; mumps, 27; and measles, 12. Births led deaths with 98 new babies in Sierra Madre as against 95 deaths.

Other services rendered by the Monrovia health district in the fiscal year included classes for expectant mothers which were attended by 53 women. Clinics and conferences held in the health center for the surrounding area included 75 venereal disease clinics, 91 tuberculosis clinics and 92 well baby conferences, with a total attendance of 10,187.

Cowan Dairy Store Opens On Baldwin

Sierra Madre's first store dealing exclusively in dairy products opened this week complete with soda fountain and table booths, in the Clarence Morrison building at 44 North Baldwin Ave. Owned by Lynn H. Cowan and son, G. H. Cowan of Pasadena, the new store will make retail sales of hand packed and packaged ice cream, as well as bottled milk and cream. The store will manufacture much of its own ice cream, especially the unusual flavors, such as peppermint stick and banana, which are now being featured.

G. H. Cowan is a veteran of four years service as an instructor in the Army Air Corps. He has more than 2300 hours in the air. A member of the Air Corps and Reserve, he has recently agreed to give one day each week as an instructor at the Corps training field at Long Beach. He is a dairy industry graduate of Iowa State College and was employed as an ice cream maker with Borden's, Inc. in New York City and Philadelphia, and with the Alfalfa Dairies at Palm Beach, Fla., before going into the service.

The store plans on catering to ice cream orders for parties. An air conditioning system is due for installation soon.

Sierra Madre Deer Hunters Eat Venison

A party of Sierra Madre deer hunters literally "brought home the venison" when they returned Friday from a hunting trip in the Blue Lake district of Northern California.

City Councilman Vinton A. Hoopes brought down a four-point buck, the only deer bagged by the group. Other members of the party, most of whom got in some shooting, were Murdo McIvor, Robert Lalone, Kenneth Allen, Mike Kourk, Floyd Keith, Tony Fraccaroli, and Fred LaLone, who came down from Oregon to join the hunt. The area covered by the hunters was one in which the Lalones have hunted for several seasons.

STORE FRONT BEING REFACED

The Sierra Madre Hardware Co. store front has been chipped off during the past week in preparation for refacing with new quarry tile. This new facing is expected to give the store a distinctive appearance, covering the present sill beneath the show windows and running five feet up the outer side walls.

Civic Club to Launch Local Quota of $1252 Sierra Madre USO Drive

The Sierra Madre Civic Club is preparing to make the fall drive for USO which is the last group remaining in the original War Chest. The club is taking this project on their shoulders and will make an intensive drive for the week starting October 15 to 22nd according to the president, Mrs. Gwen Dewey. A house to house canvass will be made to raise the local quota of $1252, the National quota being $19,000,000. More details of the work will be given through the News next week.

WHY, USO, DID YOU ASK? It is part of the unfinished task of winning the war, of safeguarding the fruits of victory so that PEACE can be made secure.

USO has three major obligations to meet in 1947: to serve veterans who will not yet have been released from hospitals, armies of occupation or overseas duty by the end of 1946; to provide activities in the meantime for the armed forces, until

Miss Gibson Manager For Past 21 Years

Twenty-two children including one family of five brothers and sisters are living this year at the Plaza Community Children's Center Home at 72 West Alegria Ave.

Youngest child at the home is a boy of three years, and the oldest is a girl of 16. Some of the children have lived at the Plaza Home for more than 11 years, and the alumni number over a hundred, including many who served in the Army and Navy in World War II. A number are married and have homes and children of their own.

Miss Elsie N. Gibson, who has been manager of the Plaza Home for 21 years, says that no problem ever arises that she has not met and confronted with before. Once children become adjusted to the environment, she says, there are no more disciplinary problems than would be found in a family of equal size.

All of the children who are of school age attend the Sierra Madre Elementary school and (Continued on page five)

SIERRA MADRE POSTAL RECEIPTS UP

Total receipts at the Sierra Madre post office for the month of September were $2,887.08, a net gain of $725.08 over September 1945, when receipts were $2,162.00, according to Postmaster Thomas R. Durning.

New McCarty Bldg. Readied For Opening

The new kiln at McCarty Brothers' Ceramics Art Pottery building on East Montecito street is undergoing a three day firing test this week, as the plant is readied for occupancy in the next few days.

A look into the kiln early in the test revealed a cherry red glow as the huge oven reached a temperature of "Cone 15", meaning in lay terms, 2570 degrees Fahrenheit.

Constructed at a cost of $5000 by the T. and B. Machine Co. of Los Angeles, large industrial contractors, the kiln was built under the supervision of a nationally known industrial engineer, according to Lee F. McCarty.

The new ceramics plant represents an investment of approximately $35,000 and has been called one of the most modern plants of its kind. Built of sheet aluminum, it provides well lighted and ventilated working space for employees, and adequate room for offices and laboratory. Work tables are provided with modernistic chairs, and "nightlight" illumination is provided with fluorescent lights. All kilns are being located in an enclosed and roofed area separate from the rest of the building.

Design of the building was by the Los Angeles County Engineer, C. E. Klunk of the Sierra Madre Hardware Co. did all the plumbing and Eber Thomas did the electrical work.

Building Permits Rise

Total building permits issued in Sierra Madre for the month of September amounted to $65,000. This included all residential and business construction projects in excess of $1,000.

Building permits issued in the city for the month of September, a year ago totaled only $35,700 in comparison.

Some permanent plan for morale service for the enlarged Army and Navy has been completed; to accomplish its own demobilization at such a tempo that it does not add to the general confusion, but remains a steady influence during the transition to peace.

HOW USO WILL DO IT

USO operations in 1947 will include: 350-400 USO Clubs in the United States for hospitalized veterans, troops in training and families of service men.

Stion lounges for travelers and services and clubs at transportation points for troops in transit, men on leave, and relatives of service men in route to military establishments.

Overseas clubs in the Philippines, Hawaii, Alaska, Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, the Antilles, Newfoundland and Labrador. Camp shows entertainment for men in the occupation forces and isolated garrisons overseas, as well as veterans in hospitals.

FILES ON PARADE

In the boundless vast
Of things that were,
Out of the past
The echoes stir
And live once more
Where the presses roar.

Who says that a paper can't feel and think?
Yellowed pages, ancient ink
Volumes dusty and touched with mold—
Yet how much of the life of the town they hold.

Star-aimed faiths of the men who dreamed,
And hoped, and strove, and surmounted trials—
All set forth in the dusty files—
Accounts of times when the "eagle screamed,"
Accounts of days when the town's heart bled
Solemnly mourning heroic dead,
Stories of triumph and stories of pain,
Days of sunshine and of rain,
Witty lines and commonplaces,
Old friends' half forgotten faces,
Birth for youth, and death for age—
Tidings that make folk weep or laugh
Borne in column or paragraph
Marching across the weekly page.

Who says that a paper can't feel and think?
Yellowed sheets and ancient ink,
Volumes dusty and touched with mold—
Yet how much of the life of the town they hold!

Local Red Cross Workers Attend Council Dinner at Alhambra Monday Evening

Rollin C. Lewis, President of the Bank of Sierra Madre, and newly elected chairman of the Los Angeles County Council of Red Cross chapters, presided at a County Council dinner meeting Monday evening in Alhambra, which was addressed by Earl O'Connor National Chairman of the American Red Cross.

Following the flag ceremony, the invocation was led by the Rev. Dr. A. O. Pritchard. Mr. Lewis introduced new officers of the Los Angeles County Council and welcomed delegates and guests. A roll call showed 167 representatives from the 14 Red Cross chapters in the county.

A Presidential Unit Citation was received last week end by Ralph T. Van Vleet of 74 West Grandview Ave. for heroism shown as one of the crew of the USS Essex during World War II.

The Citation reads: "The President of the United States takes pleasure in presenting the PRESIDENTIAL CITATION to the USS Essex and her attached air groups for extraordinary heroism in action against enemy Japanese forces in the air, ashore and afloat in the Pacific War Area from August 31, 1943, to August 15, 1945."

"Spearheading the concentrated carrier warfare in forward areas, the ESSEX and her air groups struck crushing blows toward annihilating Japanese fighting power; they provided air cover for our amphibious forces; they fiercely countered the enemy's aerial attacks and destroyed his planes; and they inflicted terrible losses on the Japanese in Fleet and merchant marine units sunk or damaged. During the dependable in combat, the ESSEX and her gallant officers and men rendered loyal service in achieving the ultimate defeat of the Japanese empire. The Citation is awarded for the President by James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy."

Van Vleet served as a Chief Electrician's Mate aboard the Essex and is now associated with the Wistaria Cab Co.

Accompanying the award was the appropriate ribbon bar with Presidential Citation star.

PALM BURNING CONVICTION STATE PRISON OFFENSE

A burning palm tree at 601 East Grand View Avenue, discovered by Police Officer Jack Rutledge while on patrol at 1:07 a. m., was responsible for the fire alarm sounded early last Saturday morning. A pile of lumber and other inflammable materials nearby on the lot, were in danger of being set afire from the blazing tree which was extinguished by the Fire department. The fire was believed to have been set intentionally, by a person or persons unknown.

Police Chief Gordon G. McMillan, commenting on the fire, warned that anyone caught setting palm trees fire in Sierra Madre will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Imprisonment in State Prison for not less than one year and not more than 10 years is the penalty for conviction of palm tree burning as set by Section 609 of the California penal code, Chief McMillan emphasized.

Jewish Temple Asks Playground Permit

The question of granting a zoning variance for construction of a professional building in an R-3 residential zone came before the City Planning Commission's regular monthly meeting, Thursday evening at the City Hall.

Victor H. Woehler, on behalf of his brother, Dr. John L. Woehler, requested the Commission to give an opinion on whether permission would be granted to build a professional-dental building on the Northeast corner of Suffolk and South Baldwin Ave., facing south on Suffolk Street.

No action was taken pending the filing of a petition and further study of the variance request.

According to Secretary W. W. Vannier of the Planning Commission, Sierra Madreans are now faced with the question of where they want business expansion to go. Citizens must decide whether new businesses are to locate on vacant lots in areas now zoned for business, or if further variances are to be granted along Baldwin Avenue or along side streets crossing Sierra Madre Blvd.

L. E. Dimit asked a temporary variance on the north side of Montecito Street at Baldwin to keep his plumbing equipment in his home pending a business location. No action was taken, pending the filing of a petition.

Advice was sought by Dr. Nathan Jacobs and Sam Perloff in behalf of the Valley Jewish Temple, which proposes to establish a playground on vacant property adjoining the Jewish Temple at Lima and Laurel Avenues. The playground, which would be established by the Valley Jewish Center, would be fully supervised and would be open to the public as a playground.

Question raised by the proposal is whether a playground owned by such organization and opened to public use is legally the same as one that is public owned, under the city ordinance.

The commission pointed out that a regular petition must be presented and a legal ruling secured before action can be taken on the proposal.

C. H. Gerke read provisions of the Arcadia building ordinance which provided that buildings constructed on corner lots be set back 10 feet from the side street property line for a 60 foot lot; 13 feet for a lot of 60 to 75 feet frontage; 20 feet for a 75 to 100 foot lot and 25 feet for lots with more than a 100 foot frontage.

Legal Ruling Hits Smaller Sub-Dividers

Owners of improved real property who sell an unimproved portion of such property and leaves the retained portion insufficient for a building site, under the city ordinances, are liable for prosecution under Section 13 of the Sierra Madre Zoning Ordinance, according to a legal opinion rendered last week by City Attorney Thomas A. Reynolds to members of the City Planning Commission.

The buyer of such unimproved area is entitled to a building permit and may erect a single family dwelling on the vacant property so purchased. His act in building would give rise to no violation of the zoning ordinance, provided the owner's requirements for front side and rear yard are complied with, Reynolds said.

The seller of such property who has retained an improved area insufficient as a building site, has by his own act violated the ordinance and continues to violate it so long as such condition is maintained, the City Attorney said. The seller would thus be liable to prosecution under Section 13 of the Zoning Ordinance, and the City Council could order abatement or injunction proceedings brought to abate or enjoin the maintenance of such a condition upon the theory that it was unlawful and constituted a public menace.

"A violation of the Ordinance is declared by law to be a misdemeanor, punishable upon conviction with a fine of $300 or imprisonment, and the Ordinance is committed for each day that such violation continues," the Attorney declared.

The Planning commission has ordered distribution of the letter's contents to all interested parties.

CAMERA TOPICS

by T. T. Holden

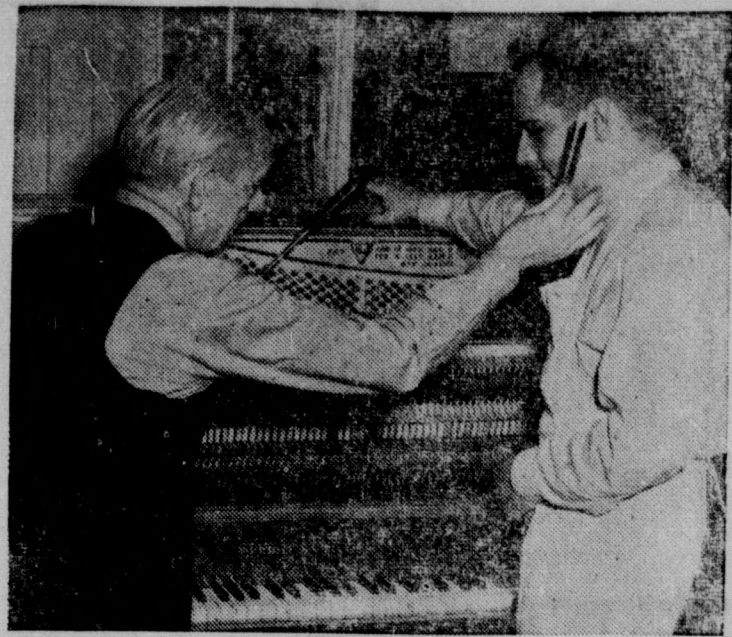

It takes clever timing to catch children at their charming best. Howard O'Brien stopped this cute moment with his Speed Graphic.

TIMING YOUR ACTION SHOTS

When summertime and vacations take us out of doors with our cameras, we find that many good picture opportunities involve subjects in motion. Action-stopping pictures generally have a great deal more interest than still, posed shots and are not difficult to make with a good high-speed shutter. You need at least 1/100 second exposures to freeze the motion of children at play or people romping in the water and if your camera will go as high as 1/500 or 1/1000 second you can stop almost any kind of action.

The most important trick to making successful action pictures is a good sense of timing. A shot of a baseball player sliding into third is more exciting if you catch him before he gets there instead of afterwards. It is always better to be a little early on freezing action than a little late. This calls for some practice in foreseeing pictures and the ability to click the shutter at just the right instant.

Watch any game or activity for a few minutes and you will discover certain times or places where you can count on something exciting happening. On a baseball diamond, first base, third base or home plate are the best areas to focus

At Marion, they enjoyed a fireplace fire every evening while she was there. The weather was very comfortable. On the way home she stopped over at Lamont, Missouri, to visit a former Sierra Madre family, Mrs. August Tegtmeyer. Mr. Tegtmeyer was at one time with the Grant Chapel.

★Loomis

retiring to his room. The day before had brought much pleasure in the arrival of his son, Lt. L. Kenyon Loomis, who came from Providence, Rhode Island, to spend a portion of his terminal leave with his father before taking up civilian life.

Mr. Loomis is survived by another son, John C. Loomis, Jr. (Tony), who came from the East last year to enter as an associate in the real estate and insurance business with his father. Besides the two sons there is a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Havlick of West Hartford, Conn., and three grandchildren.

The services were held at the Grant Chapel Tuesday morning with interment private.

Editorial Note: (Perhaps the most intimate glimpse of Mr. Loomis' remarkable personality will be gleaned from two verses from his own pen, written a few days before his death.)

The darkest shadow of Time can be and is
The brightest ray of Eternity.

TODAY
Live today for Today—
Let no hope for a halcyon day
mar the perfection of Today.
Let no memory of a glamorous day,
dim the glory of Today.
There never was or can be a better day
Than the forever Today.

—JOHN C. LOOMIS, SR.

★ A Real Home

kindergarten. Several boys who finished their grammar school instruction last year are now attending the Spanish-American Institute.

Homeless Mexican and other Latin-American children, between the ages of three and 10 are placed in the Plaza Home by the Plaza Mexican Methodist Church in Los Angeles and by Los Angeles County welfare agencies. In most cases, one parent of the child is living, but is unable to make a home for the child. In other cases, children may be from broken homes, but in most instances, parents contribute something to the child's support. Those placed by county welfare agencies are supported by the county, except for clothing which is provided by the Plaza Home. Support also comes from various interested groups within the Methodist Church.

Children living at the home share in its work. The girls are taught to cook, wash, iron, mend and make some of their own clothes. The boys take care of their own building and of the grounds. The older boys often work in town, selling newspapers and older girls occasionally grow as baby sitters in nearby homes.

Romances sometimes develop between the widowed parents of the children, who meet while visiting the home. Last year the mother of one child married the father of another, and the couple established a home for the two children.

Whenever possible, when a child who has brothers and sisters is placed with the Plaza Home, all are taken into the Home together. There is at present one family of five brothers and sisters, and another of four. The aim of the manager is to create a genuine family spirit for all the children.

The staff consists of the manager, a boys' matron, girls' matron, and a house-keeper-cook. The present girls' matron grew as a baby sitter in nearby homes.

When her husband went into military service, she came back to the Plaza Home with her small youngest and joined the staff.

In the absence of a fulltime boys' matron, Miss Gibson, in addition to her responsibilities as manager, is supervising the boys' building. The problem of coaxing several small boys to sleep in a dormitory room she meets by reading to them. Recently she received the gift of a friend's choice library of children's books, containing many high quality children's stories. Sometimes as a special bedtime musical treat, she brings a record player into the small boys' dormitory and gives them a brief interlude of Beethoven and Brahms.

Tells of Training Methods to Overcome Common Dog Faults

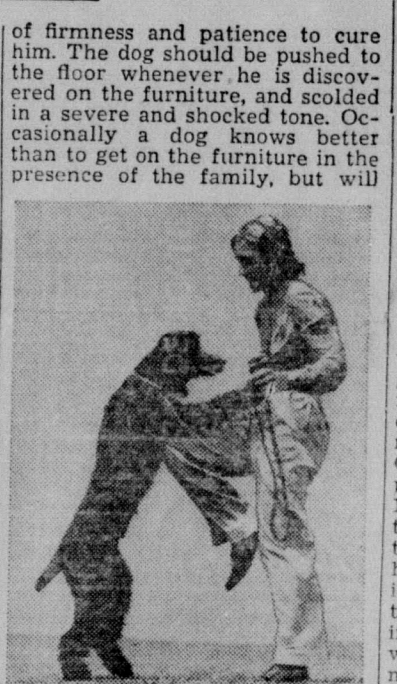

A well-trained dog is a much more agreeable and amusing companion than the harum-scarum, "rough-neck" dog that has never been taught the niceties of canine etiquette, says the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City. Dogs are not born with good manners any more than are children. A badly behaved dog is a reflection on his owner.

One of the most common faults of dogs is jumping up on people. Usually the dog does this in an over-exuberance of friendship. But no matter how sociable the dog's intentions are, no one wants clean clothing smeared with dirty paw marks. The best time to start training against this habit is when the puppy is three or four months of age. Every time he jumps up, he should be pushed away with a sharp-toned command of "No!"

There are two good methods for training older dogs out of this habit. One system is to grasp the dog's front paws when he jumps up, hold them firmly, and at the same time reach out with one foot and step slightly on the dog's back feet. If this procedure is followed every time the dog jumps up, he soon learns to associate discomfort with jumping on people, and abandons the practice. Another cure for this habit is raising the knee just as the dog jumps up, so that the dog's chest will be hit, and he is thoroughly jarred and perhaps even toppled over backward. The knee should be raised and lowered as quickly as possible so that when the dog regains his balance and looks up, he sees you standing quietly as though nothing had occurred.

Either of these two methods, followed consistently, should stop the most persistent jumper. It will serve no useful purpose, however, to correct the dog on one occasion, and pet him the next time, he flings himself joyously upon you. The procedure must be followed every time the dog jumps up. It is helpful if your friends can be persuaded to follow these same methods, then the dog soon learns he must not jump on any one at all, as he gets the same handling from everybody.

Sometimes a house-dog will decide the floor is not comfortable enough for him and will start using the chairs, sofas and beds for resting places. Once a dog has acquired the habit of sitting on furniture it requires a good deal immediately avail himself of the best chair in the house when he finds himself alone. Placing a set mousetrap on the chair or bed will discourage this habit. The dog's weight will spring the trap, making a loud snap, which will not harm the dog in the least, but will startle him sufficiently to cause him to lose all interest in any place where he has this unpleasant experience.

Dogs that bark and howl whenever they're left alone often are a problem. The best way to avoid trouble of this sort is to commence training when the dog is young. Start out by leaving him closed in a room by himself for short periods. If he barks, go to him, scold him and give him a light slap or two on the rump with a folded newspaper. Do not go back more than once, though, or the dog will get the idea he can make you come to him by barking. The periods can be gradually lengthened until the dog becomes accustomed to being alone and realizes he is not being permanently deserted by his owner, whenever he finds himself without company.

POLICE BLOTTER

A comfort station provided for the public at the Canyon Swimming Pool is continuously damaged by vandalism. Children have been found guilty of this and have been taken before their parents who agreed that matters would be taken care of to prevent a re-occurrence by the same children. Still the damage occurs. What must be in the minds of people who do not appreciate comfort provided them? A hard question to answer. Recently the toilet bowls in these comfort stations were filled with stones and one of them broken. If children of this nature are allowed to continue with such action, we can readily see why there is so little thought of other people when they reach maturity.

An empty beer bottle thrown for a car is something a resident objects to. Another thoughtless performance. Chunn gets a report of a "Man Screaming" in a car. The news. When a man screams, there must be a woman after him. Officer "Bill" couldn't find the fellow. Noisy children at the school grounds after the CURFEW hour, arouses the curiosity of the neighbors. When Chunn arrived they had "beat it". Hammering at 1:45 in the morning is no time to please your neighbors as one resident learned. He agreed to stop. A bad incinerator is inspected by Jim Heasley. Fixed next day. All kinds of ways to try to annoy people. Due to a smart secretary, "Doc" Nevels saved this embarrassment during his absence from office. A bunco expert tried that old one of claiming to be an old friend of the "Doc". The girl at the office had her doubts and a good hunch. The doctor didn't know him. Lost jewelry... burning out of hours. "Butch" and "Punky" each had a piggy bank. Butch who is just 13 months of age probably had his mind made up to save for a college education. "Punky" who is four might have an ambition to save for a plane. At an early rate some hoodlum stole their piggy banks with all the savings in them. Pretty nearly reaching the "meanest thief" notch. A dog at the school grounds. Couldn't find his master. A fire call. Auto after which ended too far away from home to please mothers. The cops were called. The boys returned home soon. When dad and mother went for a walk, the children made "rough-house". The neighbors called the station to complain of a disturbance of the peace. "A suspicious man!" (Everything can't be told.) "Fire permit" or "Fire Hazard" appears often on the blotter. A car dripping gasoline in the gutter is taken care of by "Jack" Rutledge. Our newest handsome.

Death of prominent resident reported to police. Burning out of hours report. Heasley found this to be very near to the brush area. A newcomer gardener who was not hep to our rule 6 agreed to take a walk called out firemen. A loud noise within a small house in the Canyon frightens neighbors and police are called to investigate. Mayor Steinberger has already taken over the situation and after all water, gas, and electricity had been shut off, the mysterious noise stopped. "Twas found to be caused by a very bad leak in the water mains. One of the worst leaks the water department has experienced in a long time. Following the water leak, the effects of the wind and storm of last Sunday, reports of wires down began to stripe the log. "blotter" to you. Lightning striking a telegraph pole very close to the Pacific Electric station caused all lights within the station to be turned out. Many reports of electric lights out during Sunday's storm. Moving out and taking curtain rods with them was more than the owner could stand. Objects sustained. A stray cat. Officer Jack Rutledge learned that a woman can use some vile language when he was performing a duty and had occasion to be called to the aid of a young couple who had been locked from their apartment. Lug boxes taken from the rear of Pratt's Market. Winter is coming. October 1st is lost spectacle day. Two pair lost that day.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE INDIVIDUAL

The essence of Christianity is the importance of the individual. And that doctrine has been the foundation in law of all nations whose material progress has been greatest.

The first real step forward in individual freedom was the Magna Carta, which has deeply colored the history of the world. Its most perfect expression is found in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States which carried the ideal of freedom a vast distance further. These documents say, in effect, that man as an individual, as a person, is important and that he has certain fundamental and eternal rights which cannot be abrogated by men in the mass as represented by the state.

It is not coincidental that governments based on the theory that the state is all important and the individual unimportant have inevitably destroyed or submerged religion and Christianity. For this kind of government must turn itself into a fake religion. Its goals are wholly material. Hitler knew that when he scoffed at Christianity and said that the ideal of Nazism was the one true deity for the German people. Lenin knew it, when he said that Christianity was the opium of the people.

Our government was based on a spiritual concept, not a material concept. Yet unprecedented material progress has been made here. The reasons are plain. The man who is individually important as a citizen is the man who becomes economically important as a worker. He is the thinking man, the doing man. He is the antithesis of the regimented man.

The great lesson of history is that all institutions—religion, industry, the arts and crafts—must remain free or none will remain free. There can be no compromise with oppression, no matter what form it may take. Government domination of the individual or business is slavery. The basic idea upon which our free enterprise system rests is the Christian philosophy—the importance of the individual.

MUST YOU BUY A HOUSE?

Here is a bit of advice for prospective home buyers: If you can possibly get along without buying for a while don't buy now, especially if you are not able to pay cash for the house you want.

The reason for this, of course, is that at present inflated values you'll be paying considerably more for what you get than it is worth. And a few years from now you may still owe more on your home than it would cost you to buy a new one identically the same or better.

It's not pleasant to find one's self in such a situation. It presents a temptation to "walk out" on the contract—and if this were done it would leave a black mark on one's credit record that would prove a serious obstacle in future credit dealings.

If your present living quarters are intolerable and you must have a place of your own then be sure you carefully analyze the house you want to buy. Ask yourself these questions: Will the house be adequate for the probable future needs of my family as well as the present? Is it well located in regard to transportation, shopping centers, schools? Will it be expensive to keep in repair? Is the neighborhood likely to decline before very long? If I were forced to sell for any reason within the next few years how much of a loss would I probably have to take?

America's housing problem is one of its biggest headaches in these days. But a little restraint and wisdom exercised in connection with home buying will help to prevent it from becoming the Nation's biggest headache a few years from now.

"IDEAL" MARRIAGE

Experts on marital affairs are putting greater emphasis on the fact that newlyweds shouldn't expect marriage to be "ideal".

This "ideal" marriage complex has little flexibility, and when friction develops in the home the romantic bubble bursts and divorce frequently follows.

Marriage, as is often said, is a give and take proposition. It requires a good deal of adjustment by both partners if it is to be successful. Marriage can be only as perfect as human beings are perfect—and human beings aren't. But that doesn't stop millions of married couples from being genuinely happy.

Probably the greatest factor in a successful marriage is common sense. There is reason to believe that as many homes are broken through petty disagreements which are allowed to get out of bounds as there are by really serious differences. The exercise of common sense would prevent these little frictions from assuming major proportions.

If those individuals who are planning to "take the leap" will be less "ideal" in their concept of marriage and more practical, they're likely to be much more successful in that important undertaking.

LARGEST STATE

Talk is reviving again about admitting both Alaska and Hawaii to the Union and thus raising the number of stars on the American flag to 50. Almost everyone seems in favor of the idea—that is, everyone except the Texans. You see, the people of the Lone Star state are very proud. They're proud of the fact that Texas is the largest state in the union from the standpoint of territory. If Alaska comes in Texas will drop to second position. With its 586,000 square miles Alaska is more than twice the size of Texas which extends over a "mere" 267,339 square miles. Secretary of the Interior, Julius A. Krug, has suggested that Alaska be divided into three states. Texans will be in favor of it, but with a total population of only 72,000 Alaska hardly rates six senators and three representatives in Congress. So, it appears that when Alaska "joins up" Texas will have to be satisfied with the distinction of being the largest state south of Canada.

AROUND AND ABOUT

By EDWARD LLOYD VOORHIES

THE HEART OF SCOTLAND—Pungent tang of Edinburgh, past and present.

My personal journal about my first full day in Edinburgh roughs up sketches the variety and tang of the superficial sights of Auld Reekie as the tourist sees them. The modern city has Princess Street as its chief, busy thoroughfare, running parallel to the much higher street known as the Royal Mile, which has Edinburgh Castle at one end and Holyrood Palace at the other. Between the two is the sloping, wooded and grassy park, with broad walks on one side, the outside, and winding, shady paths within, and bisected lengthwise by a sunken viaduct, with solid walls of masonry, containing the railway yards, out of sight behind a border of trees and disappearing under ground before reaching the extensive classic building of the National Gallery, whose stately columned facade bisects the parkway at right angles to the viaduct. Princess Street is busy with its shops and its banking; while beyond and above it broods the grim old Castle and the ancient, somber dwelling houses of the Royal Mile, exuding an aroma of past history and holding on to the present with true Scotch tenacity, aging and antique but not yet superannuated, growing old with the sturdiness that is next to gracefulness.

On one lower corner of the park, between the two worlds of Princess Street and the Royal Mile, the huge and pinnacled Gothic monument of red sandstone to Sir Walter Scott soars high into the silver blue haze, a strong link between Past and Present. And it may not be too much to say that the people of Edinburgh will continue to read Scott's Waverley novels and his lays and ballads as long as one stone is left upon another in the city itself. Nor do I doubt that the last Scot, if by some future

Super Secret Weapon forced to flee to the hills over the ruins of his beloved city, will somehow manage to carry with him his favorite volume of Sir Walter and his copy of the complete poetic works of Robert Burns.

The Castle grows upon one as he walks up the hill toward it, becoming more important and real as one senses the evidence of age and strength. Linger at the entrance for a few moments, I become of a group about the Camera Obscura, the clever arrangement of reduction mirrors by which one sees the panorama of the city below gathered up into miniature, in which every individual is seen like a Lilliputian, walking about among the other little folk down there, every detail showing in its natural colors. With this bird's-eye, Gulliver's view of the unsuspecting inhabitants as an introduction, I go on in to view the landmarks and symbols of history abounding in the seven-gated Castle. We gaze upon the time-seasoned regalia and crown jewels which remain so carefully treasured from the wreck of time in which so many more than these have perished—the sword of state which the great Pope Julius II of Renaissance days gave to the popular Scottish King James IV, whose reign did so much to bring a gentler Continental civilization to the rather primitive Scotland of that day; and we see, chosen other hallowed jewels more than once retrieved from a sea of blood during the turbulent reigns of the Catholic Stuart kings and finally restored to Scotland in 1807 by the last of that royal family, Cardinal York. We visit the Armory nearby, where among the antique armor and quaint weapons of the past looms the famous "Mons Meg", a cannon once regarded as "huge" and no doubt, as a then new "secret weapon", terrifying to Scotland's enemies, the English, under Henry VII,

IN THE CREATION of this sacred edifice there has been established "a better way"—the loving way of memorializing that mitigates grief through beauty and inspiration—the devoted way of perfect tribute that lessens sorrow and substitutes comfort and consolation. Why not accept the opportunity of visiting this great home institution today? There is no obligation and your increased familiarity may well assist in the solution of this all important family problem at this time.

The Convenient Yet Secluded Modern Memorial

at the siege of Norham Castle in 1497 by James IV. Six years later, however, James IV married the Tudor monarch's daughter, Margaret, thus paving the way for the Scottish Stuarts' later claim to the throne of England.

The castle walls enclose a variety of buildings, some of them modern. Oldest of all is St. Margaret's Chapel, a miniature house of worship, 26x10 ft. where another Queen Margaret, mother of David I, may have worshipped as early as 1060 A. D. It contains a memorial window to one of my earliest boyhood heroes, William Wallace, whom I met and adored in the pages of Jane Porter's "Scottish Chiefs". A few steps away is the onetime living apartment of still a third famous Margaret—of the house of Guise of Lorraine, the French mother of Mary Stuart, tragic Queen of Scots. And very grim and realistic the small room, high in the castle's tower, where Mary Stuart as a prisoner gave birth to the babe who was to become James VI of Scotland and also—in spite of all that Queen Elizabeth could do—James I of England, her successor. And there in the wall one sees the narrow window through which Mary of Scotland dared lower the infant James in a basket, down that dizzy height "on a 200-ft. rope", in order that a trusty partisan of the Queen might get him Catholic baptism and a safe return to the agitated bosom of his mother, "the forsigner".

One corner of the grim old castle grounds shows a touch of quite modern sentiment which would awaken a response in millions of juvenile American hearts as yet completely untroubled by any knowledge of any history beyond the ache of the first tooth. This is a little plot of ground which contains the well-tended graves of the pet dogs of more than one generation of soldiers of the Castle's garrison. This little cemetery for loved and remembered pets is kept in excellent condition, with fresh flowers, clipped borders, and well trimmed shrubs, evidently by a community spirit which does not lag. Indeed, without much mental strain one could recall here and there in this little plot of ground graves for human beings whose forgotten and neglected state contrasts sharply with that lovingly tended burial place of the dogs in Edinburgh Castle.

It is always well to remember that while extra parts may be available for the car there are never any for the driver.

"Turquoise Matrix" At Belasco Theatre Week's Engagement

"TURQUOISE MATRIX", which is considered to be the most unusual drama ever presented on the American stage, will open a one week's engagement at the Belasco Theatre, Los Angeles, Wednesday evening, October 2. This date marks the premiere here for "TURQUOISE MATRIX", and theatergoers will have the opportunity of seeing this production before it is presented on Broadway in the late Fall theater season.

Betty Blythe, the most famous of all screen sirens; Russell Arms, prominent screen actor on loan from Warner Brothers' Studios; and Louise Arthur, well known on the radio and New York stage, are the trio of principals who head the cast. Other featured players include: Edwin Cooper, Gordon Wynne, Wheaton Chambers and Frank Pharr.

The story of "TURQUOISE MATRIX" deals with a dramatic and unforgettable love of the present time to the surprise ending in another strange period which takes the theatergoer back to one of the most exciting and thrilling moments ever devised for the stage.

During the short run of "TURQUOISE MATRIX", performances will be presented at the Belasco every evening and a special Sunday matinee at 3:00 P. M. at popular prices.

TRUE TO TYPE

A farmer, after imbibing a prodigious quantity of moonshine whiskey, attempted to blow out a candle, whereupon his alcohol-saturated breath burst into flame. Shaken by the experience, the man begged his wife to bring him the family Bible, muttering, "I gotta swear off." Placing his hand upon it, the farmer intoned: "Before heaven, I swear that never again will I blow on a lighted candle."

Veterans Get Break
At UCLA Says
T. Fenton Knight

Immediate expenditure of $1,400,000 to provide new classroom facilities for World War II veterans on the UCLA Campus has been authorized by the State Public Works Board according to Assemblyman T. Fenton Knight, member of the commission named to direct the expenditure of $154,000,000 appropriated by the legislature last Jan. The new structure will be known as Business Administration Building and should furnish adequate classroom facilities for the present enrollment of some 13,500 students. The authorized expenditure was made at a special meeting held in Sacramento last week upon the urgent request of the controller of the university who assured the board members that the necessary material priorities would be forthcoming due to the fact that over half of the present student body is made up of ex-service men.

Before an audience of 4000, including 225 representatives of colleges and universities throughout the country, Dr. Arthur Gardiner Coons will formally be made president of Occidental College, Los Angeles, in colorful ceremonies in the campus Hillside Theatre, Thursday afternoon, October 3.

Dr. Robert G. Cleland, president of the board of trustees, and former teacher of Dr. Coons, will invest Dr. Coons with the responsibilities of his office, charging him to safeguard the traditions, the principles, and the heritage of Occidental.

There will be a question period after the talks. The meeting will take the place of the club's regular meeting, ordinarily held on the second Monday of the month. Mrs. Rosalie Goodwin, president, will preside.

Flames Destroy
Auto on Street

A 1940 Buick sedan driven by an Altadena motorist caught fire on East Orange Grove Ave., at about 10:45 Sunday morning, bringing out the Sierra Madre fire department. The fire which apparently resulted from a short in the wiring caused a moderate amount of damage to the car.

A gas-filled electric cable that floats on the water has been invented.
